

1) Who's lucky?

Who has more luck in a typical school day, Mary or Tim? Read her e-mail to her cousin:

I get up at half past seven, have breakfast and walk to school. I often meet a friend. We talk and look at a shop or two, and we sometimes forget the time! Then we run, but we're sometimes late for school! It starts at quarter to nine. Tim gets up at eight o'clock but he's always early for school. It's because he's lucky.

I have lunch in the school cafeteria. Lunch is from quarter past twelve to quarter to one. The food is awful, but my friends are nice. Tim practices the saxophone then, so he never goes to the cafeteria. He brings his lunch. He's lucky.

School ends at quarter past three. Then we go home or I often go to Swimming Club. We usually eat dinner together at six o'clock. After dinner we do our homework. I go to bed at eight o'clock, so I can't usually watch TV in the evening. Tim has often got lots of homework, but he goes to bed at nine o'clock, so he can watch TV. Tim is so lucky! But I'm lucky too because I've got a cool brother!
