Last weekend I went to the London Eye with my dad. There were a lot of people at the ticket office, but the queue moved quick (quickly). Usually I don't like big wheels, but this was differently (different). I got on carefully (carefully) and I felt a little nervously, (nervous: nach 'feel'/felt steht ein Adjektiv) but I didn't need to worry in the end. It didn't go too fastly (fast). The glass boxes on the London Eye go very slow (slowly). It feels safely (safe: nach 'feel'/feels steht ein Adjektiv) inside them and you can walk around or sit down comfortable (comfortably). You can see the other people in their boxes too. From the top of the Eye, you can see Big Ben, the Tower of London and the British Museum clear (clearly). The day went really good (well), and I enjoyed it very much.
